WHEELING, W.Va. — The Ohio Valley Athletic Conference will put a bow on the 2003-04 school year Monday evening at the annual Banquet of Champions at WesBanco Arena.

Among the highlights of the evening will be the presentation of the OVAC "Coach of the Year" award, sponsored by the Wheeling News-Register, and one of the local area's coaches is among the finalists.

Shenandoah High's Dan Wesson was selected as a finalist for the award along with two coaches each from Bellaire and Oak Glen. Bellaire's boys' basketball coach Gene Ammirante and football coach John Magistro, along with Oak Glen boys' basketball coach Dave Smith and wrestling coach Larry Shaw join Wesson as finalists.

Wesson guided the Zeps to their first-ever undefeated regular season and a third consecutive trip to the OHSAA Division V state playoffs. Shenandoah advanced to the Region 19 finals, defeating Minford (47-6) and Wheelersburg (28-14) before falling to Amanda-Clearcreek (13-12).

Wesson's also pocketed the OVAC Class 2-A championship and the Pioneer Valley Conference crown.
