STRIKE UP THE BAND

In the last decade the great game of football has become almost synonymous with the Marching Band. The sounds arising from every football stadium throughout the nation each week-end have come to include the clear, brilliant call of the brasses and rolling drums mingled with the crisp staccato yells of loyal fans. Thrill-seeking Americans cheer thundering teams through the first halves and are then entertained by the colorful spectacle of the Marching Band. Each band is a musical tribute to the football teams who have fought so hard to win.

For centuries the only purpose of a Marching Band was the accompaniment of military groups to battle. The sight of a Drum Major and spritely Majorettes leading a gayly uniformed band has almost erased the association of the Marching Band with military might and war. The spirit of combat has been channeled to the gridiron where it reflects the spirit of Sportsmanship so typical of this Nation.

We here in Ohio Valley are privileged to see some of the finest Marching Bands. Bellaire has rallied behind its band and has placed it in its rightful place in the Gridiron Spectacle. The group serving as a nucleus for this effort is the Band Mother's Club, under the capable direction of: Pres., Mrs. Wm. Bishop; V. Pres., Mrs. Frank Paul; Sec'y., Mrs. Walter Mokros; and Treasurer, Mrs. Emerson Bell. In less than one year they have accomplished what many thought to be impossible.

The colorful uniforms and spirit of the Bellaire Marching Band here today is the result of organized community effort. The job is not yet finished. Contributions from interested parties are still welcomed. The Band Mothers depend a great deal on the proceeds from the food concessions at the football field. Patronize this group and help the Big Red Band.

The Forward Pass

Today's football fan sees the forward pass as an integral part of the offensive strategy of every coach in the land, but it wasn't always that way.

There was a time in football history when the pass was distrusted by coaches. In the 1900's, the pass was a new-fangled idea which most coaches thought would ruin brand of football then in vogue.

The forward pass was finally accepted in 1906, but the restrictions governing its use would make the modern coach turn grey-headed over night. For one thing an incomplete pass was lost at the spot from which it was thrown. In the early days also, the pass was required to cross the line of scrimmage at least five yards from where the center put the ball in play.

In 1909 the rules were revised allowing the passer more latitude. The pass no longer had to cross the line of scrimmage five yards from the point where the ball was put in play. The new rule required the passer to be five yards behind the line of scrimmage. The 1909 rules also declared the ball dead if it traveled more than 20 yards in the air without being touched by a player.

Another restriction during this early period made a ball caught behind the goal line a touchback rather than a touchdown. In 1912 the field was shortened to 100 yards and the end zones provided. The rules were changed so that a pass caught in the end zone meant six points and the 20-yard pass limit was also abolished.

In regards to forward passing, here are the rules:

"A forward pass may be touched or caught only by an eligible player. All the opponents are eligible. The players on the ends of the line and players who are at least one yard back of the line of scrimmage of the passing team when the ball is snapped are eligible (provided they do not go out of bounds) unless and until one of them touches the ball, when he only of his team remains eligible. If, however, an opponent touches the ball then all players become and remain eligible."

One rule often misunderstood is "interference with a pass receiver." The defensive player may use his hands to interfere with the intended pass receiver "until the ball is passed". Then the defensive player may only play the ball and not the pass receiver.
