OVAC Banquet of Champions postponed

By SETH STASKEY
Times Leader Sports Editor

Ohio Valley Athletic Conference Executive Director Dirk DeCoy formally announced Wednesday that the annual Banquet of Champions has been postponed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The decision was made during the OVAC Executive Board meeting, held via Zoom just a few hours before DeCoy disclosed it during the athletic directors' meeting, which was also held virtually.

The banquet, which was scheduled for Monday, May 13 at West-Banco Arena, is where several thousands dollars worth of scholarships, the overall champions, the student-achievement awards and OVAC Coach of the Year are presented annually.

While the deadline for student-athletes to submit their scholarship applications has been pushed to July 1, DeCoy announced that if spring sports are not contested neither the overall championships nor the student-achievement awards will be presented for 2020.

"If we don't have spring sports, we can't have those two awards because the spring seasons are a big part of the equation," DeCoy said.

The Bill Van Horne Coach of the Year Award will be presented, but when remains to be seen. It can be given because the spring season stems from year prior because when it's presented in May the current spring hasn't been completed.

"We're going to award the coach of the year, but the timing may be off," DeCoy said. "It could be announced in the summer or even when (schools) get back in August, but there will definitely be a coach of the year."

As for the 2020 spring sports season, DeCoy announced, "like everything else, we're in a holding pattern."

The OVAC has laid out several different scenarios, assuming school resumes and both Ohio and West Virginia are able to play their respective spring sports seasons. However, the OHSAA just announced its revised calendar late Wednesday afternoon, but the WVSSAC has yet to formalize its new calendar once schools for if and when schools re-open.

"We're seeing what we can do and we realize there's a chance that everything can be canceled (by the states), but we need to be ready in case the schools resume session," DeCoy said.

LeBron: Closure not likely unless season can end

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Instead of preparing for a playoff run, LeBron James is mostly spending the spring playing hoops with his teenage sons and enjoying tea time with his young daughter.

And when he isn't binge-watching "Tiger King" with his wife, he is scanning the news for information on whether the coronavirus pandemic will allow the Los Angeles Lakers to finish their impressive season chasing an NBA championship.

James is still optimistic about the Lakers' future, but he also knows safety comes first.

"I don't think I'll be able to have any closure if we do not have an opportunity to finish this season," James said from his home Wednesday on a conference call with Lakers beat reporters.

The Lakers were cruising toward their first playoff berth since 2013 when the NBA season was suspended March 11. They have the Western Conference's best record at 49-14, leading the second-place Clippers (44-20) by 5 1/2 games and trailing only Milwaukee (53-12) in the overall league standings.

The Lakers did it following a thorough roster turnover last summer headlined by the arrival of Anthony Davis. They also persevered through a stressful preseason trip to China, followed by the death of franchise icon Kobe Bryant in a helicopter crash in January.

James' 17th NBA season is obviously unique for many reasons, but he is uncommonly proud of what the Lakers have accomplished so far.

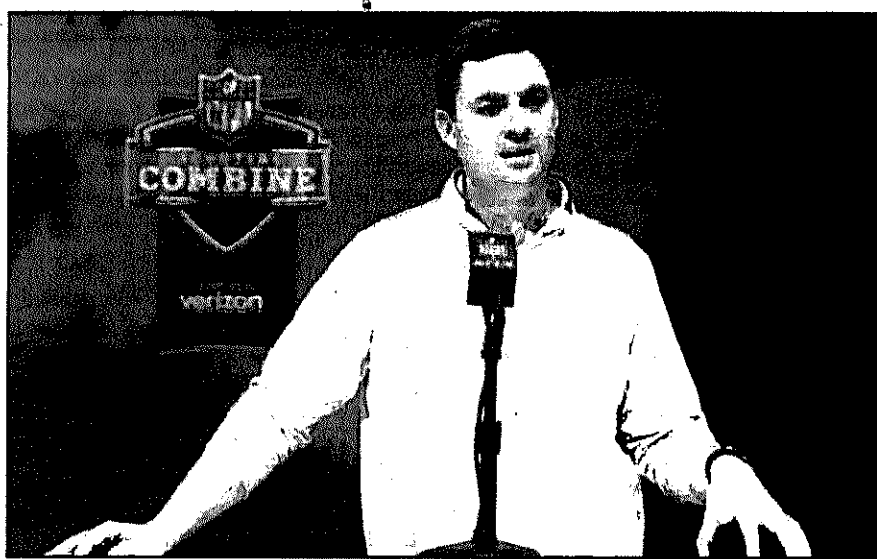

"I can have some satisfaction on what our team has been able to do this year (with) a first-year coach, first-year system, a whole new coaching staff, bringing on so many new pieces to our team this year," James said. "I honestly didn't think that we would be able to come together as fast as we did, just having so many new pieces (and) bringing in Anthony. He spent seven years in New Orleans, so he was coming into a new system, playing along with myself, and how we would be able to come together? I thought it would take us a lot longer than it did, but I was wrong. I was very wrong about that."

And then all that good work abruptly stopped four weeks ago. Two unidentified Lakers players subsequently tested positive for coronavirus, but the Lakers say James and his teammates are all healthy after they completed their 14-day isolation.

James will be deeply disappointed if the Lakers don't get a chance to test themselves during a playoff run, yet he realizes what's most important in the upcoming weeks and months.

James initially expressed reluctance about playing games in empty arenas, or the possibility of NBA teams gathering in the same city to complete the season in a form of sports quarantine. The 16-time All-Star selection now says he is up for anything that's safe and smart.

Taylor encouraged by free agent haul

• Bengals also have No. 1 pick in upcoming draft

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati had a list of top targets heading into free agency, and coach Zac Taylor says the Bengals got the players they wanted.

The Bengals announced Wednesday they had reached agreements with eight unrestricted free agents since the new league year started March 18, though all eight still must pass physicals. The Bengals' top targets included defensive tackle D.J. Reader and cornerback Trae Waynes as Cincinnati spent lots of money after going 2-14 in Taylor's inaugural season.

Taylor said the players Cincinnati landed in free agency speaks to how the Bengals are viewed outside their own building.

"It's just encouraging to know that there's a lot of excitement building around our organization right now," Taylor said on a Zoom call with reporters.

"Guys are excited to be a part of it and look forward to getting to know those guys. Who knows the next time we'll get a chance to actually meet them physically. But it was certainly a fun process."

Next will come the NFL draft with the Bengals holding the No. 1 overall draft pick and expected to take quarterback Joe Burrow after using the franchise tag on wide receiver A.J. Green last month.

Reader was the biggest piece of Cincinnati's new free agents, agreeing to a four-year, $53 million deal. The 6-foot-3, 347-pound tackle spent the past four years with Houston, and he has started 52 of his 61 games. He has 154 tackles with 6 1/2 sacks and was a fifth-round pick out of Clemson in 2016. The Bengals like his versatility.

Lafreniere tops draft-eligible prospects list

• 2020 NHL Draft, lottery are postponed
By JOHN WAWROW
AP Hockey Writer

It makes little difference to Alexis Lafreniere when, where or how he'll learn about being selected in the NHL draft.

The 18-year-old from Quebec simply can't wait to begin the next step of his promising career with the NHL's entire calendar of events on hold due to the new coronavirus pandemic.

"Growing up it's the dream of every hockey player. And to see how close we are right now, it's pretty exciting," Lafreniere said during a conference call Wednesday after the NHL Central Scouting Bureau had the Rimouski Oceanic forward topping its final ranking of North American draft-eligible prospects.

"I think we're all excited for the draft," he said. "And for the team that's going to draft me, I'm going to be really happy to join them."

The only question for Lafreniere and his fellow prospects is when the draft will take place and what form it will be conducted.

The draft, scheduled to take place in Montreal in late June, has been postponed. So has the draft lottery to determine the top seedings and the weeklong pre-draft combine in Buffalo, New York.

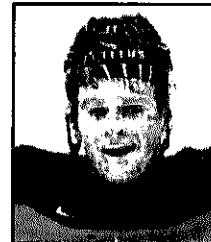

The draft can't feasibly be held until the playoffs are completed or the entire season canceled.

That places the likelihood of the NHL holding the draft in September or as late as October.

What's not in question is the 6-foot-1 and 200 pounds Lafreniere topping the class of prospects.

"He makes plays that you don't even think those plays are possible, and he still makes them," said bureau regional scout J.F. Damphousse.

Woods, caddie, sued over 2-year-old shoving incident

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP Golf Writer

A Florida man has filed a lawsuit against Tiger Woods and his caddie, claiming he suffered injuries from the caddie pushing him out of the way during the Valspar Championship that Woods played two years ago.

The civil complaint, filed Tuesday in Pinellas County, alleges Brian Borroso tried to take a selfie as Woods approached his tee shot left of the 13th green in the third round at Innisbrook, and that Joe LaCava fall into the crowd.

Josh Drechsel, the lawyer representing Borroso, said the lawsuit was filed two years after the tournament to get a better understanding of the injuries, which were described in the suit as "either permanent or continuing."

Mark Steinberg, the agent for Woods at Excel Sports Management, did not immediately reply to a text seeking comment.

LaCava said he had no comment.

Drechsel, meanwhile, issued a public plea for evidence from nessed the incident.

One video Drechsel has shows LaCava approaching the fans with his left arm extended saying, "You've got to back it up."

Drechsel says he wants to find the fans who could be heard on another video. One says, "I love Tiger, but I don't like him," and another voice is heard saying, "He just pushed him. He just shoved him right out of there."

The lawsuit says Borroso went to the hospital to be treated for his injuries.

in 2018, a key event in his return from back surgeries. Before record crowds, at times standing a dozen rows deep around tee boxes, he came within one putt on the 18th hole of forcing a playoff and finished one shot behind Paul Casey.

Woods was named as a defendant because he employs LaCava, who previously was the longtime caddie for Fred Couples and began working for Woods in the fall of 2011.

Drechsel said he asked the PGA Tour for video from the tournament and said the tour majority of teams open the following week.

Speaking in a live video discussion with the Texas Tribune, Sharp addressed the football season in answering a question about the university system's lost revenue because of college sporting events which have been canceled because of the COVID-19 virus.

Sharp said he's gotten many questions about football and whether it will return on time this season, if at all.

"In some conversations with SEC officials and NCAA, I think they've come to the conclusion that you can probably start football as late as October and still have a don't know."

SEC spokesman Herb Vincent said he was not familiar with the conversations Sharp referred to, but addressed the league's hopes for the upcoming season.

"Our focus is on preparing to play the season as scheduled," Vincent said in an email to The Associated Press. "As we have done in recent weeks, using the best available information from public health officials, at an appropriate time we will make decisions about the future."

The NCAA didn't immediately respond to a request seeking comment about Sharp's remarks.

South Korean baseball set for early May return

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — With new cases of the coronavirus falling in South Korea, the country's baseball league is targeting an early May restart with teams ready to play preseason exhibition games as early as April 21.

The league was scheduled to start regular-season play on March 28.

"The recent downward trend has obviously impacted our discussions," Ryu said. "As long as we can start the season in early May, we'll be able to finish everything by the end of November."

On Saturday, the government extended its social distancing campaign, which includes the closure of schools, by two weeks until April 19 and baseball is prepared to wait and see what happens for as long as necessary.

"If it's in one single, isolated destination, if it's Las Vegas or somewhere else that can hold us and keep us in the best possible chance to be safe, not only on the floor but also off the floor as well, then those conversations will be had," James said. "Once this thing gets a good handle on it and the people in the higher ranks understand it, if they know we are safe, then we can make the next step. But the safety is always the most important, and then we go from there."

James isn't yet back at work with Mike Mancias, his personal trainer. Instead, he says he is training with his wife, Savannah, and playing plenty of hoops with Bronny James, their 15-year-old son, at a thoroughly sterilized court owned by a friend. He also shoots hoops outside at his own home with the whole family.

James is doing weekly meditation, but says his mental state is outstanding thanks to his family. He has frequently spoken about missing time with loved ones during the grind of the NBA season, so he is enjoying this intensive togetherness with his kids.

"They wake up every day in a positive mind frame," James said with a laugh. "Maybe one reason is they're not actually in school, so I know they get to sleep in a lot more now. But also they're just so appreciative of life. ... Just being able to see my kids wake up with that positive attitude helps. For me, I wake up, I'm able to get a nice breakfast, and then I train. And when I'm training, I'm always in a very positive state of mind."

• OVAC

The OVAC's spring sporting championship season was originally scheduled to begin on April 25 with the baseball semifinals. The tennis tournament, softball tournament and track and field qualifying were set to begin on April 27. Baseball, softball and track events were slated to culminate on Saturday, May 2.

"Really, everything is on the table, but it's useless to put things down as concrete," DeCoy said. "If there's room or an opportunity to have a tournament, we'll look at it."

The next time the OVAC will re-evaluate its chances is scheduled for Friday, May 1. That date corresponds to when both Ohio and West Virginia's 'state-a-home' orders are supposed to be lifted with schools slated to re-open on the Monday, May 4.

"We will see what happens (on May 1) and go from there," DeCoy said. "We do not have an official date as to when we would have to cancel or make a decision by, but it could push into June.

"We're trying with these spring sports to give these kids something they can hang on to."

In other OVAC matters: DeCoy proclaimed the inaugural OVAC Bowling Championship to be a "huge success."

No fewer than 17 boys and 13 girls teams took part in the event, which was held in February at St. Clair Lanes. Cornerback Isaac Wayne agreed to a three-year contract for $42 million. The other new Bengals include safety Vonn Bell, linebacker Josh Byner, cornerbacks

• Lafreniere

"What separates him from the pack is his compete level," Damphousse added. "He's willing to play physical. He battles very game, and any time the game is on the line, you want him on the ice."

Forward Tim Stuetzle, the German professional league's rookie of the year, was the top-ranked international prospect, and considered second behind Lafreniere.

Forward Quinton Byfield and defenseman Jamie Drysdale, both from the Toronto area, were ranked second and third among North American prospects.

When play ended, Lafreniere was leading the Quebec Major Junior League with 112 points (35 goals, 77 assists) in 52 games. He was the league's rookie of the year in 2017-18, when he scored 42 goals - the most by a rookie since Sidney Crosby scored 54 in 2003-04.

Overall, Lafreniere has 114 goals and 183 assists for 297 points in 173 games. In January, he captained Canada's gold-medal-winning team and earned MVP honors at the world junior championships.

From suburban Montreal, Lafreniere has the opportunity to become first Quebec-born player selected No. 1 since goalie Marc-Andre Fleury went first to Pittsburgh in 2003.

Stuetzle is the first German-born player to top Central Scouting's list. He's in position to become the second German to be selected among the top-five picks, after Leon Draisaitl was chosen third by Edmonton in 2014.

Russia's Iaroslav Akarsov is considered the top-ranked goalie, with a chance of being the first at his position chosen in the top 10 since Carey Price was selected fifth by Montreal in 2005.

The draft order remains unknown with the season incomplete and the draft lottery on hold.

The Detroit Red Wings had already assured themselves of finishing 31st with a 17-49-5 record and 39 points, 23 behind Ottawa. Only six points separate Ottawa and Buffalo, which sits 25th.

Stuetzle has a bit of an edge over many of his North American counterparts, who are forced to work out on their own while gyms are closed. Under German rules, Stuetzle is allowed to hold personal workouts with his trainer, who owns a gym.

Still, all prospects face a potentially long wait before they might be able to work out in a team setting once again.

"It's definitely going to be a bit difficult," said Byfield, a 6-foot-4, 214-pound center, who had 32 goals and 82 points in 45 games for Sudbury in the OHL last season. "But everyone's in the same boat. Nobody's going to have been playing hockey for six months."

Central Scouting director Dan Marr said the final rankings are usually released in early April, so he and his scouts missed only about 10 days of evaluation.

With uncertainty over holding the combine, which includes two days of prospect testing, Marr said Central Scouting is collecting players' medical histories, which will be distributed to NHL teams. He added, the top 75 players also conducted on-ice tests at various prospect games this year.

mittee are currently going over several ideas.

OVAC Track and Cross Country Commissioner Dugan Hill announced that the second annual OVAC Junior High Track and Field Championship Meet, which was scheduled for

May 1 at St. Clairsville's Red Devil Stadium, has been canceled.

The push to add girls golf to the OVAC's list of championship events hasn't gone away. DeCoy stressed that 13 schools must sponsor the sport to meet the OVAC's 25 percent rule.

Along with that, DeCoy and the conference are hesitant because of some of the unknown about even fall sports due to the COVID-19.

"(Girls golf) is on the move and we hope to get there," DeCoy said. "At this point, though, the last thing we probably want to try to do is implement a new sport."

EASTER BASKET COOKIES

INSTRUCTIONS

1. This recipe will make 24 cookies in miniature muffin pans, or 12 large cookies in regular muffin pans. Spray your pans with nonstick cooking spray, and preheat the oven to 350 degrees Fahrenheit.
2. Use a tablespoon or small cookie scoop to form balls of cookie dough. Roll the balls in the colored sprinkles until they're completely covered, then place them in the miniature muffin pans.
3. Once all of your dough is formed into balls, bake the cookies in the 350 oven for about 12-15 minutes just until they're set around the edges but are still soft in the middle.
4. While you're waiting for the cookies to bake, place the coconut in a large Ziploc bag and add a few drops of green food coloring. Massage it through the bag to spread the food coloring throughout the coconut and dye it a light green color. Add more food coloring if necessary to get it to a shade of green that resembles grass.
5. After the coconut is dyed, unwind the licorice strings and cut them into 3-inch sections to form the basket handles. Licorice strings or ropes can sometimes be difficult to find, so you can substitute any other thin candy for the strings, or use pipe cleaners as a non-edible alternative to licorice.
6. Once the cookies are baked, take them from the oven and immediately start pressing your fingers into the middle of each cookie to form an indentation. If the cookies are overbaked this will be difficult and they might crack, so it's much better to err on the side of underbaking and have soft sugar cookies. After all the indentations are made, let the cookies cool completely.
7. Put the frosting in a plastic bag and snip off the corner. Pipe a little dollop of frosting into the center of each cookie, just until the hole is filled.
8. Sprinkle the top of the frosting-filled cookie with the green coconut, until all the frosting is covered and it looks like the cookie basket is filled with grass.
9. Press the ends of a licorice string into the frosting to form the handle. If you're using pipe cleaners, bend them into a U-shape and stick them either into the frosting or just poke them into the top of the cookie.
10. Lastly, fill your Easter basket cookies with goodies! I recommend using speckled jelly beans, pastel Jordan almonds, or any small Easter candy that you enjoy.

INGREDIENTS

- 1 1-lb package refrigerated sugar cookie dough (or homemade dough)
- Assorted colored sprinkles
- 1/2 cup frosting, canned or homemade
- 1/2 cup shredded coconut
- Green food coloring
- Speckled jelly beans
- Pastel Jordan almonds
- Licorice string (pipe cleaners are a non-edible substitute)

Brady: It Was Just Time To Leave Patriots

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tom Brady entered his final season in New England with a strong inkling that it would be his last with the Patriots.

The six-time Super Bowl champion who signed with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in free agency last month said Wednesday on SiriusXM's "The Howard Stern Show" it was "just time" for a change, reiterating he has no hard feelings about coach Bill Belichick not making him a Patriot for life.

"I think he has a lot of loyalty and I think he and I have had a lot of conversations that nobody's ever been privy to, and nor should they be," Brady told Stern during a wide-ranging interview lasting more than two hours.

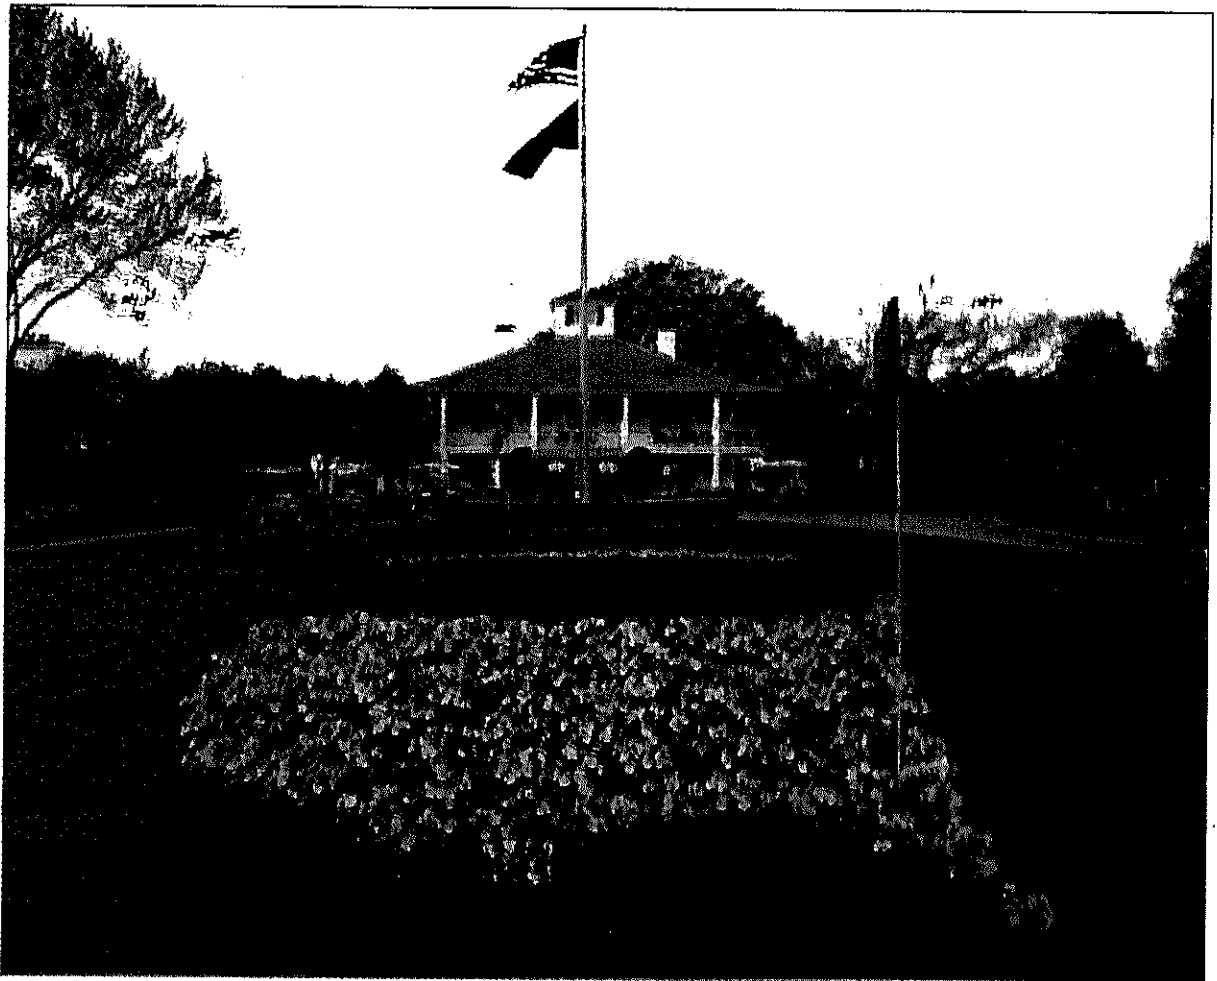

"So many wrong assumptions were made about our relationship, or about how he felt about me. I know genuinely how he feels about me," the four-time Super Bowl MVP added.

"Now I'm not going to respond to every rumor or assumption that's made other than what his responsibility as coach is to try to get the best player for the team, not only in the short term, but in the long term as well."

The coronavirus pandemic has killed thousands, forced most everyone to hunker down in their homes, and shut down sporting events around the world. The Masters was not immune to its wrath.

Masters postponed for first time since World War II hiatus

By PAUL NEWBERRY

The Masters is so intertwined with Augusta, they added an extra day to spring break.

You see, the first full week of April isn't just a blip in time for this place.

It's their identity, their way of life, their cart path to success.

A restaurant or bar can take a huge step toward profitability off the business it generates in a single week. An ahead-of-its-time industry sprung out of the locals renting their homes to strangers to accommodate the influx of fans, sponsors and media. From ticket brokers to impromptu parking-lot attendants, it seems everyone in the east Georgia city of 200,000 has figured out a way to make a buck off the first major golf championship of the year.

But the Masters is more than just commerce. Relationships are made out on the course, over a pimento cheese sandwich perhaps.

Or afterward, over a late-night bourbon and cigar. Then, the whole cycle repeats itself, year after year, decade after decade.

In some ways, it has the feel of a family reunion.

"We obviously do a lot of business that week," said Mark Cumins, who 35 years ago co-founded one of the city's most famous restaurants, TBoyz steakhouse, right down the road from Augusta National Golf

New Research Reveals Toe Fungus Could Be The Warning Sign Of A Failing Immune System

New evidence reveals nail fungus is secretly causing serious health problems. Now, scientists have developed a new way to kill fungal infections and strengthen immunity.

Jason Katz
Health Reporter

For the millions of Americans plagued by yellow, cracked and crumbling nails, there is finally hope for a common condition that can potentially be the sign of something more serious.

Thanks to a surprising scientific discovery about the true, underlying cause of nail fungus, researchers have now developed a breakthrough new way of flushing out stubborn fungal infections.

So, if you're suffering from cracked, crumbling, and yellow toenails that nothing seems to heal, you can now breathe a sigh of relief.

Because this revolutionary new all-natural pill - called Fungus Flush - is scientifically proven to help eliminate nasty nail infections from the inside - by supporting the body's natural defense system and fixing the internal malfunctions that can cause other serious health issues.

By targeting this recently uncovered hidden root cause of fungus infections, Fungus Flush works where all other solutions have failed. What's more, unlike Big Pharma's expensive, side-effect laden drugs, it is 100% natural and only costs a fraction.

Now, with stories of this powerful new solution spreading like wildfire, the manufacturers are struggling to keep up with demand.

"I can't believe this worked! For the past 4 years, I've had disgusting yellow, thick and painful nails on both of my big toes. It was incredibly embarrassing. Fungus Flush worked like magic. Now I can finally wear sandals again."

- Leslie H., Austin, TX

"I've tried every cream and ointment at the drugstore and nothing was working. After just one bottle of Fungus Flush, my toenails have turned clear and the fungus has seemed to disappear. My toes haven't looked this great in over 20 years."

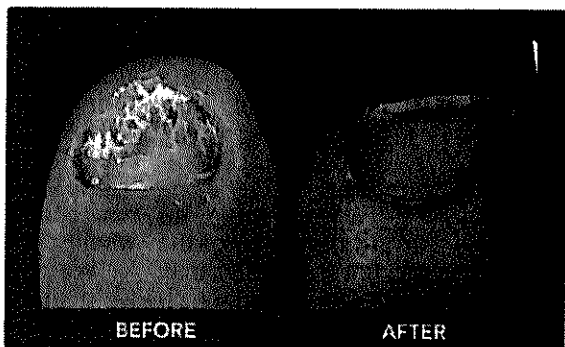

- Richard S., Phoenix, AZ

How Your Cracked, Yellow Toenails Could Be The Sign Of A Serious Health Problem

An estimated 35 million Americans suffer from nail fungus.

For years, this has been viewed as a natural side-effect of aging. However, new research reveals this is not the case. In fact, it turns out, your nail fungus may be a sign of something much more serious.

Stunning new evidence shows that yellow, crumbly nails are actually the sweaty feet.

REVOLUTIONARY NAIL TRANSFORMATION: Fungus Flush quickly eliminates the infection causing your ugly, cracked, yellow nails - without risky drugs, useless ointments, or expensive laser treatments.

As strange as it sounds, the research now shows it's actually caused by airborne fungi particles that you're breathing in every moment of every day. These invisible fungi particles are found everywhere: your home, your car, your bed, everywhere.

When we're younger, our immune system can flush these toxins from our body with ease (this is why you never see children with nail infections). But, as you age, your immune system's efficiency drops dramatically.

This allows these airborne fungi to infect your body and secretly cause all sorts of harmful side-effects, one of which is discolored, cracked, and infected toenails. This internal build-up of fungus is why topical creams, ointments, and tea tree oil, never work long-term.

Simply put, they're only treating the surface-level symptoms (your nail infection) not the true root cause (internal fungal build-up). This would be the same as trying to eliminate mold from your house by painting over it. Sure, you might not see the mold, but it's still lurking there just below the surface and will surely return.

This is why treatments that target the external symptoms have been shown to have extraordinarily high failure rates.

Fungus Flush Works From The Inside Out

It was specifically formulated to flush out your fungal infection internally.

By doing this, you can finally rid your body of the toxins causing your nails to become yellow, cracked and crumbly. And, after the internal infection is flushed out, you'll quickly see healthy, strong, youthful nails regrowing.

Fungus Flush achieves this through a proprietary blend of all-natural, plant-based ingredients that have been formulated into an easy-to-swallow pill. The scientific evidence shows these ingredients work in perfect harmony to help eradicate fungal infections.

Could Your Yellow

• Third, it strengthens your immune system so you're protected from future infections and can remain fungus-free.

This powerful 3-phase approach is a true breakthrough in the treatment of nail fungus. It is the first solution to target the true, root cause of your nail fungus - not just the surface-level symptoms.

By strengthening your immune system, boosting blood flow, and killing your internal fungus infection, Fungus Flush quickly eliminates your yellow, cracked, ugly nails and restores healthy, youthful nails you're proud of.

What's more, as this internal fungal infection is eradicated, it simultaneously eliminates the brain fog, fatigue, inflammation, and joint pain that internal fungal infections can cause.

Best of all, unlike Big Pharma's overpriced drugs, Fungus Flush works fast, is free from side-effects, and only a fraction of the cost. Just take two pills per day and you'll quickly see your discolored, dying nail disappear - being replaced by a healthy, crystal clear one.

Demand For Fungus Flush Soars

Since its initial release, demand for this breakthrough new nail fungus solution has been through the roof. And it's not surprising why.

After all, with millions of Americans suffering from toenail fungal infections... with side-effect ridden drugs costing hundreds of dollars and taking 6-12 months to work... with laser treatments costing over $1,000, Fungus Flush is the first all-natural, low-cost pill that guarantees results.

While many sufferers are struggling to get their hands on Fungus Flush, we've secured a small supply exclusively for readers of this newspaper.

Through our partnership with the manufacturer, we're able to offer you a special discounted supply of Fungus Flush for the next 48-hours only.

but we need to be ready in case the schools resume session," DeCoy said. The OVAC's spring sporting championship season was originally scheduled to begin on April 25 with the baseball semifinals. The tennis tournament, softball tournament and track and field qualifying were set to begin on April 27. Baseball, softball and track events were slated to culminate on Saturday, May 2.

"Really, everything is on the table, but it's useless to put things down as concrete," DeCoy said. "If there's room or an opportunity to have a tournament, we'll look at it."

The next time the OVAC will re-evaluate its chances is scheduled for Friday, May 1. That date corresponds to when both Ohio and West Virginia's 'state-at-home' orders are supposed to be lifted with schools slated to re-open on the Monday, May 4.

"We will see what happens (on May 1) and go from there," DeCoy said. "We do not have an official date as to when we would have to cancel or make a decision by, but it could push into June. We're trying with these spring sports to give these kids something they can hang on to."

In other OVAC matters: DeCoy proclaimed the inaugural OVAC Bowling Championship to be a "huge success."

No fewer than 17 boys and 13 girls teams took part in the event, which Brady, who'll turn 43 in August, said he entered "unchartered territory as an athlete" when continued to perform at a high level in recent years.

"I was an older athlete, and he started to plan for the future, which is what his responsibility is. And I don't fault him for that," Brady said of Belichick. "That's what he should be doing. That's what every coach should be doing."

Brady signed a two-year, $50 million contract with the Bucs last month, joining a team with the worst winning percentage in league history.

"I never cared about legacy. ... I never once, when I was in high school, said, 'Man, I can't wait for what my football legacy looks like.' I mean, that's just not me. That's not my personality. So why would I choose a different place? It's because it was just time. I don't know what to say other than that," Brady said.

"I had done everything. I accomplished

Q: Where would games be held?
The idea of having one or two sites for games has been discussed, with Las Vegas and Los Angeles among them. The league has explored several possible sites, for preparation purposes, but has not entered into any concrete deals anywhere.

Q: Would fans be allowed?
Almost certainly not, at least not at first, unless social distancing guidelines are lifted and public health officials say it is safe.

Q: If safe, how would play resume and when?

A: The NHL could target a late June or early July resumption of the regular was held in February at St. Clair Lanes.

"Gary Holubeck at St. Clair Lanes said that the OVAC was the largest crowd they'd ever had at St. Clair Lanes," DeCoy said.

With the huge crowd came some concerns about safety, which is something that's being addressed.

"We will have the event and we hope it continues to grow, but we need it to grow safely," DeCoy said.

DeCoy didn't offer any prospective plans, but did say he and the bowling committee are currently going over several ideas.

OVAC Track and Cross Country Commissioner Dugan Hill announced that the second annual OVAC Junior High Track and Field Championship Meet, which was scheduled for May 1 at St. Clairsville's Red Devil Stadium, has been canceled.

The push to add girls golf to the OVAC's list of championship events hasn't gone away. DeCoy stressed that 13 schools must sponsor the sport to meet the OVAC's 25 percent rule. Along with that, DeCoy and the conference are hesitant because of some of the unknown about even fall sports due to the COVID-19.

"(Girls golf) is on the move and we hope to get there," DeCoy said. "At this point, though, the last thing we probably want to try to do is implement a new sport."

everything I could in two decades with an incredible organization, an incredible group of people. That will never change," the three-time NFL MVP said. "And no one can ever take that away from me. No one can ever take those experiences or Super Bowl championships away from us."

Brady also talked about moving his family into a furnished mansion he's renting from Derek Jeter in Tampa, as well as his marriage to supermodel Gisele Bundchen, trying marijuana and alcohol as a teenager but not enjoying the lifestyle, and his college career at Michigan.

The quarterback also spoke in detail about his decision to skip OTAs in recent years with the Patriots after reading a letter from his wife, who at the time was unhappy with some aspects of their marriage.

"What was important to her, what was important to me was our family and our relationship, and at different times, like any married couple, things need to be changed," said Brady, who said he kept the letter.

"A couple years ago she didn't feel like I was doing my part for the family. ... She felt like I would play football all season, and she would take care of the house, and then all of a sudden when that season would end I'd be like: 'Great, let me get into all my other business activities, let me get into my football training,' and she's sitting there going, 'Well, when are you going to do things for the house? When are you going to take the kids to school?' Brady said.

"I had to make a big transition in my life to say, 'I can't do all the things that I wanted to do for football like I used to,' he added. "I've got to take care of things with my family,' because my family ... the situation wasn't great. She wasn't satisfied with our marriage.

Brady was asked several questions about his relationship with Belichick, who selected him in the sixth round of the 2000 draft - No. 199 overall.

The quarterback insisted there has never been a rift between him and the coach over who was most responsible for New England's success.

"I can't do his job and he can't do mine. So the fact that you could say: 'Would I be successful without him, the same level of success?' I don't believe I would have been. But I feel the same in vice-versa as well," Brady said. "To have him allowed me to be the best I could be. So I'm grateful for that. And I very much believe that he feels the same about me."

MLB

Q: If safe, how would play resume and when?

Games likely would start about three weeks after teams return to training. Teams and players have looked at the end of the 1994-95 strike as a possible model. Teams accepted the players' unconditional offer to return to work on April 2, which was the original start of the season, and opening day was pushed to April 25.

Q: Where would games be held?
MLB's first choice would be to play in regular-season ballparks. Uncertain
