ST. CLAIRSVILLE — There were plenty of standout players on the artificial pitch Sunday afternoon at windy and chill-filled Red Devil Stadium in St. Clairsville for the annual OVAC Senior Showcase boys' soccer all-star match.

Union Local's Brady Roe turned out to be the hero for the Buckeye State. His goal in the fifth — and final — round of the shootout gave Ohio a cherished and hard-fought, 2-1, victory ball. It ended up working out.

"This is a fantastic way to end over West Virginia," Roe added. "This means so much to me to be one of the first players from my high school to play in this game, on this field, and then to be able to score the game-winning goal."

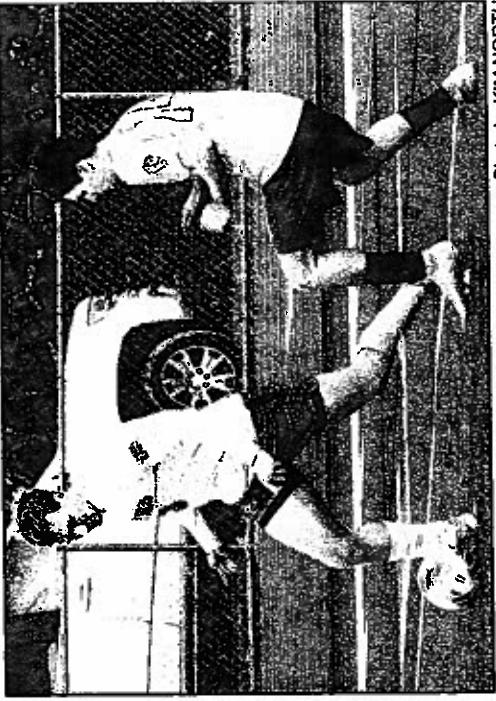

Also scoring for Ohio in the shootout against Wood County Christian's Andrew Seigneur Christian's Andrew Seigneur pounded the ball into the right side of the net as his teammates mobbed him.

Coach Brian Daboll With Team At 2-8

ew seasons have nothing short of disappointing, and we have set our expectations for the franchise. We understand the frustrations of this, and we will work harder to produce a significantly improved product."

rest of Daboll's plan was kept in place, including defensive coordinator Shane Bowen. New York has lost four row since upsetting the defending Super Bowl champion Philadelphia at in prime time early month. That included winning the first team 2003 to lead by 18 points with six minutes to go and lose, which the Jets did at Denver on 19.

This is just the Giants' midseason coaching change over the past 95 seasons. It's the first since 7, when Ben McAdoo and general manager Jerry Reese were fired following a 2-10 start.

Daboll went 20-40-1 in his first head-coaching job in the league. He led the Giants to the playoffs in his first season and was named coach of the year, but has gone 11-33 since.

His .336 winning percentage ranks 154th out of 166 coaches with 50-plus games since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. Daboll is the second coach to be fired this season; Tennessee dismissed Brian Callahan after the Titans started 1-5.

"These are difficult decisions, and John and I do not take them lightly," Tisch said. "But we feel like this is the right thing to do at this time and will allow us to move forward."

Daboll, who previously served as Buffalo's offensive coordinator from 2018-21, had faced increasing pressure about his job security in recent weeks and repeatedly took responsibility for the Giants' woes.

"Look, you put everything you've got into it," Daboll said. "You look at the things that aren't where they need to be and you try to fix them. Whether that's changing things on the schedule, whether that's different periods of practice, whether that's changing little parts of the scheme, again, that's where we're at. We're at where we're at."

While it's true that the 41-year-old Rodgers looked like the oldest active player in the league for the first time all season, it's also true that his play during the opening eight weeks is one of the main reasons Pittsburgh is atop an underperforming AFC North.

Rodgers is on pace to threaten Ben Roethlisberger's single-season franchise record of 34 touchdown passes set in 2018, and his decision-making has helped the Steelers become more efficient in the red zone.

Yet three times in the last month, Pittsburgh has been given the national spotlight with a chance to prove that this year's group is different than the "pretty good but nowhere near great" teams that have become the franchise's norm over the last decade.

All three times, they've failed. The defense came up empty against Joe Flacco and the Bengals, the entire team turtled in the second half of a loss to Green Bay, and the offense disappeared in the mid-autumn Southern Cal-game media session Sunday, an injured Alex Highsmith earlier this season, it was fair to wonder if Highsmith's days as Robin to T.J. Watt's Batman were numbered.

Obviously not. Highsmith has four sacks, a pass defensed and a forced fumble over his last two games.

STOCK DOWN

The Steelers opted not to search for an upgrade at wide receiver at the trade deadline, choosing to hold on to one of the higher-round draft picks (third or better) they would have had to part with to land one.

While it was a sound business decision — and the club did sign two-time Super Bowl winner Marquez Valdes-Scantling to the practice squad last week — the play of Calvin Austin III (who had a pass smack off his hands for an interception) and the rest of the group behind Metcalf did little to provide confidence this year's team can get by without another playmaker.

WHEELING PARKER HORN
10 ROOKIE C
IMPRESSIVE

WASHINGTON, - Following an outstanding opening week of league hoops, fresh guard Alexis Bordas the Duquesne won basketball team named the Atlantic Rookie of the Week announced by the league on Monday.

Bordas played a pivotal role in guiding the Dukes to a 3-0 start, the best opening week in the 2022-23 season. She was one of the Dukes to reach double figures in an 89-60 son-opening win Saint Francis and helped Duquesne post the second-highest point in program history with a 108-53 victory over Perry Rock on Thursday. Bordas capped the season by leading the Dukes to a 72-64 road win at Western Michigan on Sunday.

The Wheeling team got off to an impressive start in the 2022-23 season. ST. CLAIRSVILLE Volleyball match will be at the ECO Center, starting in Ohio and West Virginia will participate.

During the contest, classes will be announced who will be recognized as OVAC student-athletes.
